

I myself have been listening to XM Radio and can't stand regular radio AM, or FM. Same old story FM got popular and killed AM. Now there is XM and it is killing FM. I actually had to listen to a traffic report to find out by luck that 83N was congested. I could never find that on regular radio that quick. Of course if I had the local weather band in my car (of course it doesn't exist on regular radio as standard equipment) Voice it but let XM reign. Listen to it sometime you might just switch too.

Rudy Fredrick Yocum